1. Background

The National Small Industries Corporation Ltd.(NSIC), a Government of India Enterprises under the Ministry of Micro, Small & Medium Enterprises (MSME), has been working for the development of Micro, Small & Medium Enterprises (MSMEs), through out the country. NSIC has drawn a strategy to assist MSMEs in enhancing their competitiveness with a set of specially tailored schemes.

Amongst the various schemes through which NSIC facilitates the MSEs, is 'Raw Material Distribution' wherein NSIC has vast experience and expertise towards distribution of basic raw material like Aluminum, Copper, Iron & Steel etc. from the primary producers to small scale industries. The major raw materials being presently facilitated by NSIC to the MSEs are:

- i. Aluminium,
- ii. Copper,
- iii. Iron & Steel,
- iv. Paraffin Wax

2. Salient Features of present Raw Material Distribution Scheme

- NSIC enters into an Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) and or arrangement with the bulk manufacturers of raw materials for distribution of their raw materials. Accordingly, NSIC enters into MOU with National Aluminum Company Ltd., Bharat Aluminum Company Ltd., Sesa Sterlite (Copper) and Chennai Petroleum Corporation Ltd. etc. Under this arrangement, annual quantities are decided which NSIC undertakes to source through the bulk manufacturers for providing the same to the MSEs. For obtaining the supply of these quantities (which are transported directly from bulk producers to the works of MSEs) NSIC makes the payment upfront to the bulk manufacturers and in turn collects the same from the MSEs i.e. the responsibility for collecting the payment from the MSEs lies with NSIC. Compliance of all sales tax / VAT etc. lies with NSIC. In turn, on fulfillment of the lifting of the quantities as agreed in the MOU, the bulk manufacture(s) passes on the agreed discounts to NSIC.
- Ministry of Steel also has appointed NSIC as one of the nodal agency for distribution of Iron & Steel (being manufactured by SAIL and RINL) on pan India basis. While NSIC submits the requirements of the small industry to the bulk manufacturers (SAIL&RINL) by making the advance payment and lifting the material to its godown. The material is then distributed to MSEs to their requirement at producer's rate. And the charges for handling the material are being made by Ministry Of Steel.

- The steady & timely availability of the raw materials to the Micro & Small Enterprises is important for their smooth operations. In this regard, NSIC has made arrangements with bulk manufacturers like National Aluminium Company Ltd, Hindustan Copper Ltd, Hindustan Zinc Ltd, Bharat Aluminium Co, Sterlite Copper and Indian Oil Corporation Ltd etc. for providing godown and handling facilities for their products at different locations. This arrangement facilitates the industry to get the raw material at ease and closer to their works.

3. Credit Support

- In addition, the ready availability of finance to enable the MSMEs to tide over their problems of working capital gaps has been the strong feature of attraction for Micro & Small Enterprises to reach out to NSIC for availing raw material assistance with finance. NSIC enables Micro & Small Enterprises enjoy a credit support at most economical rate which ensures raw materials availability together with finance

4. Objective(s) of the Study

- It has been observed that in the last five years, the manufacturing MSME units demand for the raw material has increased substantially but the same has not translated into business with field offices.
- In addition to above, it has also been felt that there numbers of raw materials consumed by MSME units and the same has not been included into the portfolio of raw material distribution, other than mentioned at Sl.No.1.
- Also, to explore/examine the purchasing cycle of raw material, source of raw material, payment terms including credit extension, transportation, statutory requirements and discount etc. by MSME units in the zone/state.
- Analyzing the reported benefits that the beneficiary MSMEs of the scheme of NSIC derived.
- To suggest possible measures to be adopted by NSIC in order to add new raw material consumed by cluster of units in a particular area and or number of units consuming same raw material in one industrial area/state/ and also to popularize the schemes among other MSMEs (non-participants) in order to enhance their off take among them including any modifications to be carried out with regard to scheme contents & features, its implementation procedures, delivery mechanism etc.
- Thus the main objective of the proposed study is to assess the requirement of new raw material(s) produced locally or outside the state, to be added in the portfolio of raw material distribution by NSIC

5. Methodology for conducting the study

- Preparation of Questionnaire by the agency in consultation with NSIC's respective ZGM for contacting MSMEs.
- Obtaining Contact List of MSMEs from the Industry Associations/DIC/ banks/ Industry Department of the State and or from NSIC including details e.g. Enterprise name, contact address, contact persons, schemes availed earlier, contact phone numbers etc.
- Personal contact on sample basis. However, it should be ensured that the sample size of the study should be at least 50 to 100 MSMEs.
- Analysis of Data received and evaluating the same in terms of the Objective of study as mentioned above.
- Suggesting measures to be adopted by NSIC to be able to add new raw material(s) in their branch/zone and or on PAN India basis.
- Preparation and Submission of Draft Report.
