THE NORMS SET BY NSIC FOR THE DISCHARGE OF ITS FUNCTIONS

The Corporation has defined policies and norms applicable on all its activities. Each activity contains detailed instructions for disposal of work handled by Head Office, Zonal, Branch Offices and Technical Service Centres. These rules and guidelines are issued from time to time and are modified according to the operational requirements. However, general administrative rules remain the same unless modified due to change in basic rules. Wherever the rules of the Corporation are silent, the rules as applicable to the Central Govt. are made applicable. As explained in Manual III of Information Handbook, Heads of Departments at Corporate office and in all other offices of NSIC, have been extended sub-delegation of powers to carry out day to day activities. Matters/issues involving beyond the sub-delegated powers of the Heads are referred to the next decision making authority and in cases of major policy decisions, the issues are referred to management level for policy decision. The norms set by the Corporation have been clearly defined in the each Manual relating to each activity, products, services which the Corporation render to the Micro, Small & Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) and also to various stakeholders and to its employees. The procedure reference in each Manual clearly defines the procedure involved and the level of responsibility at each functioning level.
